

UNITED STATES OF DANUBE MAY AVERT REVIVAL OF TEUTON POWER

Falling Such Fusion, Rise of German Dominated Mitteleurope Seems Inevitable, and War Would Have Been Fought in Vain; New States Created to Conform With Racial Aspirations Are Impossible.

world capital, today a city of millions of people without any future, without any chance of preserving its ancient importance, doomed to die, precisely as a head severed from the trunk of the body, would cease automatically to exercise its functions.

Within eight months of this doomed city of Vienna are two hostile frontiers, those of Czechoslovakia to the north, and of Hungary to the south. Before the war the frontiers of Hungary supplied the industrial and mineral resources of Bohemia as well as of Vienna. Today the new frontiers which we have sketched at Paris, following the vagaries of ethnic boundaries, interpose barriers which so far have proved insurmountable.

For nearly a year, since Austria-Hungary collapsed, only those traitors who followed the vagaries of ethnic boundaries, interpose barriers which so far have proved insurmountable.

Of the various states which have risen on the ruins of Austria-Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland possess access to the sea and sufficient

Sheriff's Tomato Can Star Causes Trouble

VINCENNES, Ind., Sept. 22.—A bright and shining star brought John Savage to grief. John and nineteen others were employed to maintain the peace and dignity of the Knox County Fair at all hazards. As an emblem of his authority John displayed upon his lapel a star. So noticeable was the star that it caused trouble. Mayor McDowell said it cost would cause the trouble. The charge was impersonating an officer. John admitted that the star, a large one, was cut from a tomato can.

Germany has become a mere fragment, without frontiers, indefensible, economically impossible, all its outlets to the hands of enemy tribes. Nothing is more certain than that Hungary will follow the road of Austria and its form become a member of the German confederation unless European statesmanship can substitute more favorable course and such a course can only be discovered in a restoration of the old economic association with the Austrian, the Czech and the Hungarian.

Southern Slavs Must Come In

Finally, even an economic association between the Czechs, the Hungarians and the southern Slavs would be incomplete unless the southern Slavs in their turn should also be enlisted. Only in this way can access to the sea be offered to the other three peoples. It seems to me most accurate to say that the restoration of the union between the territories and the races included in the old Hapsburg monarchy with the possible exception of the Poles and the Rumanians, or the establishment of that Mitteleurope, under German control which will mean in fact the domination of the European continent by Germany, together with the possession of the land routes into Asia and Africa through Turkey and by Suez.

It is possible to recognize the various tribes of Austria-Hungary on the surface at least. It seems not. Recent events have stimulated rivalries and jealousies, some of them a thousand years old, while in addition they have created new antagonisms. If the Rumanians and the Hungarians have been at each other's throats for sixteen centuries, it is only since the Austro-Hungarian collapse that there has been a quarrel between the Czechs and the Rumanians. If the Czechs and the Rumanians have been at each other's throats for sixteen centuries, it is only since the Austro-Hungarian collapse that there has been a quarrel between the Czechs and the Rumanians.

Italy Opposes Federation

To any federation of various races of central Europe there is in addition the obstacle created by various hostilities the not considerable barrier erected by the Czechs, the Poles and the Rumanians, or the establishment of that Mitteleurope, under German control which will mean in fact the domination of the European continent by Germany, together with the possession of the land routes into Asia and Africa through Turkey and by Suez.

Germany Will Fight Unless

Even more than the Italians, the Germans must fight, and a federation of central Europe there is in addition the obstacle created by various hostilities the not considerable barrier erected by the Czechs, the Poles and the Rumanians, or the establishment of that Mitteleurope, under German control which will mean in fact the domination of the European continent by Germany, together with the possession of the land routes into Asia and Africa through Turkey and by Suez.
